

New England Elm City Lager

Named after New Haven's nickname: the Elm City (but not to be confused with Elm City Connecticut Ale!) It is a true German Pilsner: crisp, refreshing, pronounced. Perfectly balanced pilsner malt made with all German ingredients and Hallertaur hops. It is a perfect compliment to a hot summer's day! It's definitely not your grandfather's beer, but it's what your grandfather's beer was trying to be. A must have!

Self-Defined Style: German
Pilsner

or chicken

New England Sea Hag IPA

This one's a beauty; a rich and full-bodied India Pale Ale with complex malt character, blended with cascade and noble hops. The end result is a beer that satisfies the "hop head" out there and won't chase away the newcomer. Drink it. It's good

Self-Defined Style: India Pale Ale
Strength (ABV): 6.2% ABV

Best With: Exceptional with spicy cuisine, including Mexican or Caribbean fare, as well as curry spiced Indian dishes

New England 668 Belgian Golden Ale

“Good fences make good neighbors . . . unless you live next door to Satan. Then you may need something more than a fence to accept that your neighbor is the Prince of Darkness; like our “668.” This HELLaciously delicious Belgian Ale is brewed with pilsner malts, candi sugar and blended with American and German hops

Bright golden amber with a small white head of lace on top one finger in depth. Very cloudy and hazy very light, and very bright with the first initial smell being of light yeast and wheat that has a nice little edge of fresh grass to it.

New England Ghandi Bot Double IPA

Gandhi - Bot is an intensely hopped Double India Pale Ale brewed with a blend of three varieties of American Hops. 85 ibu's this beer is brewed for those of us who need an aromatic and flavorfully hopped beer

This is hopped up like the best of them but so well balanced and almost deceptively smooth. Tons of hop flower power, with some extreme citrus and pine as well as a bit of resinous flavor that comes from all those hop oils. A little dry in the finish but goes well with the crispness that this puts on your tongue

ABV: 8.8%

IBUs: 85

New England Wet Willy Scotch Ale

Creamy full-bodied slow-sipping oak-aged wee heavy brings wafting peat-smoked single-malt Scotch sweetness to brown-sugared fruit-candied affluence. Chunky yeast sediment settles near bottom of turbid brown body, thickening syrupy molasses richness, chewy raisin-pureed cherry-bruised fig-honeyed fruiting and warming port-bourbon illusions. Butterscotch, oaken vanilla, and cinnamon-spiced apple upsurge round out alcohol-whirred paragon.

10.5% ABV

New England Imperial Stout Trooper

Brewed in a brewery not too far away and not too long ago... Imperial Stout Trooper is a full bodied stout with a majestic blend of seven different malts and Northern Brewer hops

Appearance: Pours a thick looking midnight brown with a 1/2 inch of dense tan head.

Aroma: Roasted coffee, dark chocolate, roasted nuts and a little bit of booze.

Taste: Roasted coffee, dark chocolate, wood smoke, spicy hops, and more layers of chocolate.

Mouthfeel: Silky and sticky and smooth
